MEDICINAL CHEMISTRY AND CHEMICAL BIOLOGY IN DRUG DISCOVERY: THE PHARMA PERSPECTIVE

Sociedad Española de
Química Terapéutica

July 1-3, 2026. Alcobendas (Madrid)

The X SEQT Summer School, organized by the Spanish Society of Medicinal Chemistry (SEQT) and Lilly, offers young scientists in chemistry and health sciences the opportunity to gain deeper insight into the pharmaceutical industry. Held in Alcobendas (Madrid), this year's program will allow participants to explore state-of-the-art methodologies in drug discovery as applied in the pharmaceutical industry.

Workshop topics

Drug Discovery Introduction. Target ID and Validation Strategies

Hit ID and Validation Strategies

New Technologies in Organic Chemistry and application to Medicinal chemistry

ADME properties and designing by purpose

Artificial Intelligence in the pharmaceutical industry

Drug development & Scale up

Antibody Drug Conjugates (ADCs)

Drug delivery

Regulatory Toxicology & Pharmacology

The workshops will take place in Lilly facilities. This offers an excellent environment for building connections, exchanging ideas, and engaging in scientific dialogue with professionals from the pharmaceutical sector. Attendees will contribute with flash presentations and participate in the poster sessions. To ensure meaningful interaction with the invited experts, the number of places is limited, so early registration is strongly encouraged. Make sure you secure your spot in this unique program!
